INJURIOUS INSECTS.

There are unfortunately, a large number of different kinds of insects which attack fruit trees. Some injure the foliage, others the buds, others the blossom and others the branches or the roots, while several do not confine themselves to a single part. Unless prompt measures are taken against them, they may cause the loss of the crop and seriously damage, if not destroy the trees. The most effective measure is spraying.

THE EMPIRE FORESTRY ASSOCIATION,

PREFACE.

PARTICULARS regarding the organisation and composition of the Empire Forestry Association, under whose auspices this Handbook is published, have appeared hitherto in the EMPIRE FORESTRY JOURNAL and its appendices. These matters, along with a new list of members of the Association, find a place in the present publication, after which comes a section giving the names and addresses of the Forest Officers of the Empire. Information respecting Departments and Institutions connected with Imperial forestry is then summarised and the principal centres of forestry education are enumerated. An important section is devoted to the Research Institutions of the Empire, some attempt being made to give an outline of the main research projects now being pursued.

In the concluding chapter is given a list of trade names of Empire timbers as adopted at the Empire Forestry Conference of 1928 in Australia and New Zealand. The Conference recommended that this Association should publish the list and make arrangements for its distribution, which is now being done by means of this Handbook.

It will be realised that the first edition of a reference book, so comprehensive and yet in part so detailed in its information, must have many defects which time will rectify. Those responsible for the compilation are fully conscious of these imperfections, and consequently all readers who have improvements to suggest are requested to be good enough to communicate as soon as possible with the Secretary of the Association so that amendments may be made in future editions.

The financial assistance accorded by the Empire Marketing Board towards the cost of printing the Handbook is acknowledged with thanks by the Association. Without that assistance it would not have been possible at present to embark on this new publication. All interested in the objects of the Association are requested to do their utmost to draw attention to the Handbook in order that the demand for it may justify its being continued as a regular annual issue.

P. H. CLUTTERBUCK,
Chairman.

THE EMPIRE FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

22, GROSVENOR GARDENS, LONDON, S.W.1

Patron :
H.M. THE KING.

President :
H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

THE EMPIRE FORESTRY ASSOCIATION was established by Royal Charter in 1921, and owes its origin to a resolution passed by the Empire Forestry Conference, 1920. It is not an official body, but a voluntary association of foresters and of those interested in any way in forestry and the products of the forest.

The principal objects of the Association are :

To foster public interest in forestry.

To form a centre for, and provide a means of, communication between all engaged in forestry.

To collect and circulate information relating to forestry and the commercial utilisation of forest products.

To secure general recognition of the dependence of timber supply upon forest management.

The official organ of the Association is the "EMPIRE FORESTRY JOURNAL," which, at present, is published twice annually. It is a medium for the exchange of information among the foresters of the Empire, and its contents include technical notes, technical and descriptive articles, and reviews of current forestry literature.

Membership is divided into two classes : Individual and Affiliated Members :

Individual Members :

- (a) Life Members subscribing not less than £30.
- (b) Life Professional Members subscribing £7 10s. od.
- (c) Full Members subscribing not less than £2 annually.
- (d) Professional Members subscribing not less than 10s. annually.
- (e) Associate Members subscribing not less than £1 annually.

Affiliated Members ·

(Government Forestry Departments, Registered or Incorporated Companies, Societies, Corporations, commercial firms, etc.). The terms of subscription relative to these are obtainable on application to the Secretary of the Association.

All, with the exception of Associate Members (who receive the "EMPIRE FORESTRY JOURNAL" only), have the full privileges of membership, including the power of voting at General Meetings, access to the Association's premises and library, and the right to receive all publications issued by the Association.

DEPARTMENTS AND INSTITUTIONS DEALING WITH IMPERIAL FORESTRY

1.—EMPIRE FORESTRY CONFERENCES.

Conferences are held periodically to which representatives of the forest authorities and timber interests of the Empire are invited. The first of the series took place in London in 1920, the second in Canada in 1923, and the third in Australia and New Zealand in 1928.

The progress made in forestry in various parts of the Empire during the preceding period is reported upon by the various departments, papers on selected subjects are presented, and the delegates discuss questions of forest policy and the means of promoting the better management and utilisation of forests. Resolutions passed by the Conference are in due course brought to the notice of the respective Governments. The next Conference has been arranged for 1933 and will be held in the Union of South Africa.

2.—STANDING COMMITTEE ON EMPIRE FORESTRY.

This Committee, which was appointed as the result of a resolution of the Empire Forestry Conference, 1923, acts as a link between Conferences and takes the steps which are necessary to give effect to the resolutions passed by each Conference. The constitution of the Committee is as follows : Chairman of the Empire Forestry Conference ; Technical Commissioner, British Forestry Commission ; Director of Imperial Forestry Institute ; Member of Council of Empire Forestry Association ; and one representative of each of the following : Colonial Office ; India Office ; unit of Empire in which last Conference was held ; unit of Empire in which next Conference will be held. (Address : 22, Grosvenor Gardens, London).

3.—BRITISH FORESTRY COMMISSION.

Established by the Forestry Act, 1919, this Department is charged with the general duty of promoting the interests of forestry and the production and supply of timber in the United Kingdom. Among other duties, it carries on research (see page 98) and issues bulletins, reports and other publications. One of its functions is to maintain touch with similar bodies in other parts of the Empire. (Address : 22, Grosvenor Gardens, London).

4.—IMPERIAL FORESTRY INSTITUTE, OXFORD.

This was founded in 1924 in fulfilment of a resolution of the British Empire Forestry Conference, 1923. In addition to post-graduate courses, it provides refresher courses for forest officers, home and overseas, and (as noted under Research Institutes, p. 99) it undertakes the structural examination and identification of wood, the identification of trees, and research on problems of silviculture, entomology, mycology, and in other branches of forestry.

5.—FOREST PRODUCTS RESEARCH BOARD.

This is one of the advisory boards of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. It controls the Forest Products Research Laboratory, the scope of whose work is indicated on page 100. (Address of Research Board and Forest Products Research Laboratory : Princes Risborough, Buckinghamshire).

6.—IMPERIAL INSTITUTE, LONDON.

The Institute is under the control of the Parliamentary Secretary of the Department of Overseas Trade, assisted by a Board of Governors which includes representatives of the Dominions and India. It exhibits and carries out investigations into the mineral, plant and animal products of the Empire and acts as a clearing house for information relating to these products. The Imperial Institute Advisory Committee on Timbers was established in 1916 to consider the question of the wider utilisation of new and relatively little known Empire timbers, and to advise in connection with the work on timbers carried out at the Imperial Institute. (Address : Imperial Institute, South Kensington, London).

7.—ROYAL BOTANIC GARDENS, KEW.

Kew is principally concerned with forest botany, but its functions include arboriculture, the identification of trees and timbers, the supplying of information on the uses of timber, minor forest products, and the diseases of trees. In addition, a special interest is the general botanical survey of all parts of the Empire. (Address : Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, Surrey).

8.—EMPIRE MARKETING BOARD.

The Empire Marketing Board was appointed in order to advise the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs in the administration of the annual vote of £1,000,000, granted by Parliament. It is closely related to the Imperial Economic Committee, as it is charged with the endeavour to give effect to many of the recommendations of that Committee.

The object of the Imperial Economic Committee is to improve the methods of marketing, and the preparing for market of the products of the Empire, and in this connection it issued in 1928 a report on Timber which forms the tenth of the Committee's series of publications. (Address: 2, Queen Anne's Gate Buildings, London).

9—BRITISH ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE.

In 1925, in connection with the Southampton meeting of the Association, a separate sub-section was assigned to Forestry. Since that date meetings of the sub-section have taken place regularly each year. It is intended to continue the series in 1930 when the meetings will be held during September at Bristol. (Address: Burlington House, Piccadilly, London).

10.—EMPIRE FORESTRY ASSOCIATION.

The Association (see page 7) was established by Royal Charter in 1921. Its main objects are to co-ordinate and develop forestry throughout the Empire and in particular, by means of the Empire Forestry Journal, to act as a medium for the exchange of information. (Address: 22, Grosvenor Gardens, London).

Current Programme :

SILVICULTURE.

General.—The collection, compilation and dissemination of silvicultural information gained from observation from all available sources. Afforestation of a demonstration area.

Statistical.—The compilation of yield tables and rates of growth for high forest pure crops on the standard timber and small wood definitions. The compilation of rates of growth and volume tables, etc., for single trees on the standard definitions. Compilation of money yield tables. Investigation into methods of measuring trees and crops and calculating volumes and increments

Experimental.—Investigations on seeds, e.g., effect of age, size, germination per cent., storage, aids to germination, etc. Investigation on seedlings, e.g., nursery and transplanting practice, development, etc. Investigations on trees and crops, e.g., inheritance of characters, soil and quality class indicators, congestion, etc. Regeneration problems of specific species. Protection of forests. Physiological problems, e.g., water requirements of forests, crops and root systems of typical species.

FOREST ECONOMY.—The collection, collation and dissemination of information with respect to experiments, enquiries and trade statistics, etc., and finding markets for timbers. Enquiry into the special uses of Indian timbers and finding indigenous substitutes for timbers imported for special purposes.

MINOR FOREST PRODUCTS.—Experimental tapping of Boswellia serrata. Manufacture of Katch, Katha and matches. Preparation of tar, charcoal and briquettes from waste wood and sawdust. Enquiry into certain minor products.

WOOD TECHNOLOGY.—Preparation of data for field keys for identification of woods at $3\frac{1}{2}$ diam (pocket lens) supplemented by photographs depicting the woods at the same magnification. Preparation of a book on Indian timbers.

SECTION OF PAPER PULP.—Making a survey of grass and bamboo areas with a view of ascertaining their suitability for exploitation and erection of pulp mills in their neighbourhood. Examination of all possible grasses and bamboos for paper pulp. Investigation of the sulphate method of producing pulp from bamboo. Investigation of the best type of machinery for pulp manufacture in India. Enquiry into the possibilities of pulp manufacture from the conifer timbers of the Himalayas and from certain broad-leaved species. Disseminating information to prospective manufacturers on localities, material and machinery.

SEASONING.—Demonstration to interested public and the Forest Department on the economic and correct methods of seasoning. Determining the maximum and minimum humidities that will give the best seasoning in shortest time without impairing timber structure. Experiments in natural seasoning. Determining relative cost of seasoning timber by artificial compared with natural methods. Determining the proper methods of seasoning sleepers to prevent splitting, etc. Advising railways relating to the seasoning kilns and use of seasoned materials in carriage construction. Investigation of the methods of drying veneers. Experiments with Forselle's method of vacuum drying. Experiments with Ozone for accelerating seasoning of timber containing oleo resins.

TIMBER TESTING.—Continuation of tests on small clear specimens. Continuation of tests on constructional sizes. Tests on vehicle parts. Tests on the strength of sleeper woods. Tests on certain timbers for special purposes. Collection of data from all tests carried out with the object of compiling grading rules. Advice to enquirers on the strength and suitability of timbers for various purposes. Tests on glues.

WOOD PRESERVATION.—Observation of the experimentally treated sleepers laid on railway lines for durability tests. Absorption tests on mechanically suitable sleeper woods of species other than those at present in use. Toxicity tests with various antiseptics on a laboratory scale. Treatment of timber suitable for telegraph poles in open tanks. Investigations on the possibility of treating timber with emulsions of coal tar and water, creosote and water, etc. Investigations on the treatment of Indian timbers for use as paving blocks. Tests on all Indian timbers as to their liability to attack by insects and fungi in the natural state and after treatment with various preservatives. Advice to enquirers on the artificial preservation of timber and plant suitable for the purpose.

WOOD WORKING.—Organisation of experimental work on veneers and plywood with the object of testing timbers suitable for packing cases, panelling, cabinet-work, etc. Enquiries into suitable glues for various purposes. Observation on the working qualities of various Indian timbers for special purposes, for which at present imported timbers are largely used.

FOREST ENTOMOLOGY.

Major Projects : Hoplocerambyx spinicornis, biology, natural enemies, control measures to be adopted, and collection of statistics. Biology of sal borers other than Hoplocerambyx. Biology of teak defoliators, their natural enemies, control measures to be adopted, and collection of statistics. Dihammus cervinus, biology and control measures to be adopted. Borers of Indian timbers, biology and collection of statistics.

Minor Projects : Babul borers, biology and control measures to be adopted. Deodar insects, biology and collection of statistics. Biology of Poplar Gall and Gmelina insects. Maintenance of a card-catalogue to economic entomological and zoological literature of the world, and of insect pests. Preparation of text-book of Indian forest entomology. Identification and disposal of material collected on tours. Taxonomy : Description and classification of the early stages of pest species and their allies. Revision of the Indian Cerambycidae, and Oriental Scolytidae and Platypodidae. Maintenance of a card-index to newly-described Indian insect species, and additions to published catalogues of the Indian insect fauna.

FOREST BOTANY.

Study of important forest grasses. Season and method of collecting and preserving seeds. Establishment of an arboretum. Completion of Duthie's Flora of the Upper Gangetic Plain. Study of the species of Dipterocarpus in India and Burma. Illustration and description of Indian forest plants imperfectly known, overlooked or not correctly identified. Root diseases of sal and sissoo. Identification and control of the sal thicket fungus. Investigation of the occurrence and importance of Cronartium ribicolum in India and other Peridermiums.

BIO-CHEMISTRY.

Assistance to other Sections of the Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun, and also to forest officers and enquirers outside the Institute

Research : General study of the chemistry and commercial uses of minor forest products. Isolation and study of active principles of medicinal plants. Investigation into the nature and value of dyes obtainable from woods, barks, fruits, flowers, and leaves. General study of forest soils in relation to tree growth.

TRADE NAMES of EMPIRE TIMBERS.

Since April, 1927, a Committee of the Empire Forestry Association* has had under consideration the standardisation of trade names of Empire timbers, taking all existing lists into account. A new combined list was drafted, and copies were forwarded to the Standing Committee on Empire Forestry and circulated by them to the Forest Authorities of the Empire, with the request that delegates to the Empire Forestry Conference, 1928, should be prepared with information such as to enable the subject to be considered in detail at the Conference. The list was discussed and amended at the Conference, and the following Resolution (No. 10)† was passed:

This Conference approves the Report of its Committee on Trade Names of Empire Timbers (Appendix X), and requests the Empire Forestry Association—

1. To publish and distribute the list in the manner suggested by the Committee and
2. To revise and republish the list from time to time.

It trusts that the list of trade names will be regarded as authoritative by all bodies interested in the utilization of timber, and suggests that similar lists be published by all parts of the Empire.

The Conference desires to thank the Empire Forestry Association for the work which it has done.

Appendix X, referred to above, is as follows:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON TRADE NAMES OF EMPIRE TIMBERS.

The terms of reference are:

“To consider and report on the compilation of a list of standard trade names of Empire Timbers, and as far as possible in the time available, to prepare an initial list.”

* For composition of the Timber Names Committee see page 9.

† Summary Report, Resolutions and Reports of Committees, Third Empire Forestry Conference, Australia and New Zealand, 1928.

We had before us a tentative list prepared by the Empire Forestry Association as a basis for discussion, and decided that, in the time at our disposal, it was possible only to compile an initial list of trade names of Empire Timbers which are either already on the market in Great Britain, or which are likely to be on that market in regular and adequate quantities in the near future.

We consider that all other parts of the Empire should draw up and publish from time to time their own lists of trade names for local use and for external trade with countries other than Great Britain, and we recommend that this Conference pass a resolution to that effect.

In order to compile the initial list we interviewed all delegates concerned, with the result that the list has been reduced to about 200 species, all of which have been fully identified botanically. As an appendix we have added a few timbers which we are informed are already being exported to London, but whose botanical identity is still uncertain.

We suggest that the appended list be referred back to the Empire Forestry Association for check by its original Committee in consultation with the authorities at Kew. We think that that Committee is sufficiently representative of all interests concerned except the Empire Marketing Board, which might be asked to nominate a member when it has under consideration the question of the marketing of timber.

We recommend that the Empire Forestry Association be asked to publish the final list and make arrangements for its distribution.

In order that the list may be of permanent utility it is essential that it be revised and brought up to date annually. That this may be done, we recommend that the Empire Forestry Association be asked to receive and publish additions and corrections from all parts of the Empire, which should be communicated to the Secretary of the Association annually, not later than the first of November, for incorporation in the list for the following year.

We trust that the trade names published by the Empire Forestry Association will be accepted by the British Engineering Standards Association, and that it will use its influence with its members to adopt them.

The following list is the result of the deliberations of the Conference and subsequent checking by the original Committee in consultation with the authorities at Kew. It is hoped to publish the list with amendments annually, and it is requested that proposed alterations and corrections be communicated to the Secretary, Empire Forestry Association, as soon as possible.

The list is arranged alphabetically according to the initial letters of botanical names, and an index to all common names and botanical synonyms is appended (see page 124).
